THE INSTANO

Published in the year nineteen hundred twenty-seven by the Senior Class of the State
Normal School

Indiana, Pennsylvania

Volume XVI

To

John S. Fisher,

Governor of our State and an alumnus and trustee of our school, who serves the students of Indiana as a symbol of loyalty to school and ideals, we, the class of 1927, dedicate this sixteenth volume of the
Instano.

The Honorable John S. Fisher

John S. Fisher

All Indiana, either in body, in dreams, or by radio attended the State Inauguration on January 19, 1927, for on that date, John S. Fisher attained the highest honor which the State can bestow upon a man—its governorship.

Governor Fisher was born May 25, 1867 in a log cabin on a farm in South Mahoney Township, Indiana County, Pennsylvania. After his elementary education in this township, he entered the high school at Indiana. While he was attending the high school, he lived with the family of Honorable A. W. Taylor, a prominent attorney of Indiana and a member of Congress. After the completion of his high school course, he continued his education at the Indiana Normal School from which he graduated in 1886.

In the early nineties, Mr. Fisher became principal of the Indiana Public Schools. He will be remembered by many teachers and pupils for his quiet, fatherly, and sympathetic manner.

During the seven years of his teaching career, John Fisher read law in the evenings and spare time. Through the careful tutoring of Mr. Samuel Cunningham, Mr. Fisher was admitted to the Pennsylvania Bar in 1893 and at once became a member of the firm, Cunningham and Fisher.

In addition to his professional and political career, John S. Fisher has been prominent in business. He was one of the organizers and founders of the Savings and Trust Company of Indiana. He has been engaged in the development of coal fields of Indiana and neighboring counties. He is president of the Indiana Hospital Association.

We, the students of Indiana, know John S. Fisher as a trustee of our school. He has been a member of the Board of Trustees since 1902. During the twenty-five years in which he served as such, he has always been active and ready to do all that is possible to boost Indiana State Normal School.

February 15, 1927

To the Seniors of 1927:

Your courtesies to me are appreciated; and I wish, for each of you, all of the good things of life compounded annually but without usury.

Cordially,

JOHN S. FISHER

Preface

"A yearbook is a book published at the end of the year filled with information regarding the preceding twelve months." That's what Webster says; so in a strict sense, this is not a yearbook for we have not attempted to fill this book with information but simply to record the most outstanding happenings of the year.

1927 is an important year in the history of the school. It is a turning point for three reasons, namely:

1. The election of an alumnus and trustee of the school, John S. Fisher, to the governorship of Pennsylvania
2. The elevation of Dr. John A. H. Keith to the position of State Superintendent of Public Instruction
3. The degree-granting power conferred on the school by the Department of Public Education.

Numerous other events almost rivaling these in importance have occurred this year. We have recorded these in the hope that our readers will enjoy them not only now but in the after years when we are far from Indiana.

The Fountain

*It's not just the fountain on the campus to the east,
Nor a spot of beauty which has charm, to say the least.
Nay, its lure is rather as a symbol of that life
Which with passion, sorrow, joy, and love, and hate is rife.
Tier on tier it climbs, each one smaller than the last,
As in life's rising stations each man's fate is cast:
Some must occupy the lowest with its crowded mass,
And tho' they struggle bravely, above it cannot pass;
Others on a higher plane may live their whole life through
Never to rise upward tho' they do their best, 'tis true;
Above this is another of moderate success
Where others a certain fame are able to possess;
While a few of rare ability may hope to gain
Upon the topmost level the right to world acclaim.
The pliant, sparkling water rises joyfully to the sky
As youth's gay ambitions would all obstacles defy;
Its tinkling, laughing, happy chime seems like youth's unending chant:
Its ever upward flow like young forces leaves no room for "can't";
But despite its happy symbols and its promises so fair
Ever downward, earthward, falls the water through the clear, blue air,
Just as man, tho' bright lamps of fame for him may always burn,
Must leave at last his treasures and to the dust and earth return.*

—QUEEN KEATING

The Fountain

The Fountain

*Hear the fountain. It is oozing, gurgling, singing.
How we wonder what it's saying as it's spouting, rushing, spraying.
Does it see a true reflection on the water in the pool?*

*Here's our school. It's instructing, teaching, sending,
And we wonder is it sighing as the pupils go forth trying.
Does it see them growing, climbing, bringing honors to their school?*

To the Seniors:

In a recent poem entitled "Who Builds a House," Edgar A. Guest says that such a person:

" makes open guarantee
That loyalty and faith shall never cease."

" does all that mortal can
To show he will be steadfast through the years."

" has sworn to do the right,
To be the strength and bulwark of his race."

I know that in your years at Indiana you have done something more important than the building of a house or the planting of a rose. So, instead of "Who Builds a House," may we not use "Every member of the Class of 1927" as the subject of the poem? I hope, when you reread the quoted affirmations with this new subject, they will be true of you—and true of you through all the years.

Cordially yours,

JOHN A. H. KEITH

JOHN A. H. KEITH
State Superintendent of Public Instruction

John Alexander Hull Keith

Governor John S. Fisher showed his discriminating judgment when he chose Dr. John A. H. Keith for the position of State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Pennsylvania.

Indiana feels the great loss, but as interested citizens of the Commonwealth and future teachers, we realize just as Dr. Keith realized, that every person should be in that position where the most and best service can be rendered.

Dr. Keith is a man of national reputation as an educator. His varied experience fits him adequately for this tremendous work. He is interested not only in education as a state affair but as a national concern.

Dr. Keith was born at Homer, Illinois. He graduated from the State Normal University, at Normal, Illinois and secured the B. A. and A. M. degrees at Harvard. In 1919 he was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Pedagogy by Miami University at Oxford, Ohio.

Dr. Keith's teaching experience has been wide and varied. He has taught in rural and village schools in Illinois and in the Training Department of the State Normal School at Normal, Illinois. He served as teacher of pedagogy and psychology in the Northern Illinois State Normal School at DeKalb, Illinois. In 1907 he was elected President of the State Normal School, at Oshkosh, Wisconsin, where he remained for ten years, coming from there to Indiana as Principal in 1917. For two summers Dr. Keith has given courses in normal school administration at Teachers College, Columbia University.

As an author Dr. Keith is known by "Elementary Education, Its Processes and Problems," published in 1905. He is also joint author with Dr. W. C. Bagley of Teachers College, New York City, of "The Nation and the Schools," published in 1909 and "An Introduction to Teaching," published in 1923. He is joint editor with Dr. Bagley of the "American Teachers College Series", published by Macmillan Company which includes text books on education and on various subjects primarily for those who are preparing to teach in public schools.

We are very proud of "our principal" for, though he may be Superintendent of Public Instruction to others, he will always be the human, sympathetic, and kind "Doc Keith" to the class of '27.

To Dr. Keith:

It was years ago when our forefathers came to this country. They turned their faces toward an unknown and enticing land. What adventures it held they did not know, but with an earnest heart and a helping hand for their neighbor, they threw their shoulders against the yoke and reaped a harvest that has been an inspiration to all.

Today, we, the Senior Class, stand at an open door, ready to join with the older and wiser of the world, and give to it our best. Not only will it ask us for physical effort but will call forth all our mental powers as well.

Why are we ready to go out, so eager to take our places? We feel that our education has been one of great worth. We may not realize this now, but later in life, separated from our school-day friends, we will look back and see what a vast store of knowledge we received.

Our lives are changed because of our having been at Indiana. Contacts with social groups have been made, which will never be erased from the diaries of our lives.

It is to you, Dr. Keith, that we owe our deepest gratitude for making such a future possible for us. We sincerely thank you for your guidance, your tolerance, your kindly interest, and your influence, which we have constantly felt that you meant for each of us.

May you have the same bright outlook on life in your future duties that we feel you have transmitted to us as we stand ready to go out to our respective stations.

History of the Class of 1927

The history of the class of 1927 reminds one of the history of modern Europe. It's important but oh, so complicated! In European history we may begin with Italy, and the first thing you know we're talking about German maneuverings of the same period. Just so in the history of the class of 1927, we have the two, three, and four-year courses and the Music, Art, Junior High, Commercial, Home Economics, Intermediate, and Primary Departments to talk of.

Our new method in teaching history is to study cause and effect in relation to present events. What was the cause—why did we all come to Indiana? The real cause was that we chose teaching in our special fields as a profession.

What is the effect? It has yet to be proved. Spurred on by the cause, encouraged by Indiana, we now graduate eager to show the effect. If our cause is a true one and our training lived up to, we shall realize our ideals by being to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, its citizens, and to the children, sincere and willing teachers.

You inquire of the time that elapsed between cause and effect. Our large and varied group was brought together as a whole at several times, but the gatherings which will be remembered longest are our Proms—Junior, Special, and Senior, and our Senior Outing at the Lodge.

Then in September, 1926 we had election of senior officers. Class, yes, school spirit was aroused over the age-old issue: shall the man or woman rule? The man won out, and opposing leaders gracefully accepted the blow. We know that even the latter have felt confidence in the systematic way in which the senior affairs have proceeded.

The class of 1927 has at least one great distinction. We are the first class to be graduated from Indiana since the school was granted the power to confer degrees. Since this is the beginning of a new era, we may consider it the parallel of the Treaty of Versailles in our modern European study.

Our Class Day is to be a novel affair. We're looking forward to it, but with it comes the thought of June and separation. We'll all be glad to really start to earn a living and become honest-to-goodness teachers, but somehow the thought, "Our school days are over, and many ties will be broken", comes too; and there is a lump in our throats. But that's life, isn't it?

Fancies From the Greenhouse

Two events of great significance and far-reaching importance happened in the year 1926. The first of these was the election of John S. Fisher, an alumnus of Indiana Normal and a prominent citizen of Indiana, to the highest seat of honor the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania can bestow. The other event, which rivals this in importance, was the advent to the Indiana State Normal School of a Junior Class composed of members gathered from all points of the compass.

The Junior Class feels it a great privilege as well as a duty to write a few lines for the Instano. By these lines the Senior Class of '27 may remember the "bashful" freshmen with whom they abode the last year of their stay at Indiana Normal.

The members of the Junior Class entered with the avowed purpose of becoming teachers. Without a doubt the class had unbounded energy and unlimited enthusiasm. We soon saw that our teachers were capable of directing this energy toward the attainment of useful results. Thus it came about that after the first few days of confusion and general mixup, we got down to real work, which is sure to bring beneficial results.

Not alone in the classroom was the ability of the class shown. In football a number of the stars of our successful team came from the Junior Class. Several members of the Junior Class are also on the basket ball team. The boys are not the only athletes the Junior Class has. Many of our fair damsels have also shown skill and prowess in tennis, swimming, bowling, and basket ball.

After such an auspicious start, we may surely expect that the Junior Class will carry on and live up to the high ideals for which Indiana Normal has always stood.

Spirit of Indiana

*On! On! On to victory,
Every one expects to see you win today.
Fight to win! "Play the game square."
Always for your Alma Mater do and dare!
Now then go! Give them not a show.
You have skill and daring, that we know.
For not only will you score but will add a few points more,
Just to show them how we do at Indiana.
Indiana, don't you hear our cheer?
That you'll honor us we have no fear.
See your pennant floating o'er the field!
Unto foemen you will never yield.
You will hear us as we shout and sing;
With your praises will the welkin ring.
Other teams will know their fate,
When they meet the "Red and Slate";
It's the way we always do at Indiana.*

*Victory! Victory! Victory!
With your faces ever towards the foe,
Victory! Victory! Victory!
Pressing forward down the field you go!
Victory! Victory! Victory!
Every man is finding every play.
For 'tis written on your shield,
"Unto foemen never yield."
We will always do our best for Indiana.*

The Lodge

The Lodge—what a significant term that is. How much it means to Indiana now, and how very much more it will mean in the future! Its purchase and development was one of the big things Doctor Keith has done for Indiana. It is a school enterprise which endeavors to create a place for student activities. Heretofore, the students of Indiana were forced to hire recreational grounds for their outings and picnics. But now we have the Lodge.

What is the Lodge? In reality it is a beautiful big farm three miles northwest of the Campus, but to the class of '27 it is a scene of much beauty, much fun, and many memories.

Beauty—yes, that was the biggest factor in the buying of the Lodge. From the top of the hill, stretching miles away, the most beautiful of Pennsylvania hills are seen. Governor Fisher, when taken to this spot by Doctor Keith, remarked that he had never known there was such a magnificent view so near Indiana.

The top of the hill is not only a scene of marvelous beauty but a spot of jolliest sport. Here it is that breathless students seek relaxation before beginning a day of fun. Here it is that we eat hearty outdoor lunches with boiling coffee cooked at "our kitchen". That knoll—what seniors will ever forget it—the donkey rides, the football games, the baseball, blanket-lifting, and what not!

And what does it all mean? It means that we are eternally grateful to those who have made this thing possible. It means that the Lodge will be remembered forever by the alumni. It means—well—all sorts of things to all sorts of people, but most of all it means School Life.

Indiana-Penn

The Indiana-Penn has kept pace with the school in its growth. We have worked all year with the slogan—"Greater Indiana, Greater Penn"—before us.

Great changes have occurred in the Penn during the five years it has been issued.

The greatest change, perhaps, is in the size of the paper and in the number of publications per year. Our eight-page printed editions issued bi-weekly are much in contrast with the typewritten sheets that appeared in 1922. That year the paper was typed only when enough material was collected from the composition classes to warrant publication.

In 1923-25 Mr. DeWitt Ray, of the Indiana Evening Gazette, furnished the paper and was paid whatever amount could be obtained from the sale of single copies. Today we have a subscription list of five hundred. Besides our regular subscription list we have a large single-copy sale for each issue.

Most of the progress has been made during the last two years. New columns have been added this year. Among these are the exchange column; What Others Are Doing; The alumni column; Excerpts from the Field; and a column—As the Globe Revolves. This last column is conducted by the social studies classes. It is concerned with world problems of sociology, economics, and politics. Our paper, which in 1924-25 was issued only seven times, now appears every second Friday. The Penn has grown to eight times its original size—from one sheet to eight sheets.

We now have a plan by which our assistant staff members are in training one year for the more important staff positions the next year, thus making the staff self-perpetuating.

This year we created a permanent, rotating committee to control the Penn. This committee acts in an advisory capacity to the staff. The committee is composed of nine students, representative of all the departments of the school, and of four faculty members. The student representatives are chosen by the respective departments. The faculty members are chosen by the Faculty Club with the exception of the Penn adviser, who is an English teacher selected by the English Department.

This year, for the first time, we have entered our paper in a press contest, that conducted by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. We are also a member of the Pennsylvania School Press Association.

The Penn serves many purposes. Perhaps its chief function is the opportunity it affords the students to express themselves in writing. The Penn also provides an opportunity for everyone to know what is going on in the school in all departments socially and academically. The alumni are given a chance to keep in touch with the school and to learn what it is doing. A subscription to the Penn will help us as graduates to keep an active interest in Indiana Normal and what it is doing.

Literary Society

The Literary Society has, as the psychologist says, manifested itself variously: financially, educationally and recreationally. It has, in fact, had greater success in all these fields this season than ever before.

Financially, the Literary Society has prospered. The membership is approximately eight hundred. The membership fee is $1.50. Heretofore, there was much difficulty in the checking and designating of real members. This year, a very clever device has been conceived which makes matters much more simple. A badge pin with the name of the Literary Society upon it has been chosen. Every member must wear the badge to be allowed to attend performances.

As a result of this financial success, the society has been able to bring to us Ruth Draper, Dr. Wallace Petty, and the Devereaux Players from New York.

Many interesting programs have been put on this year under the supervision of Miss Edna Lee Sprowls, with student casts and student coaching.

The plays were:

Enter the Hero

Two Crooks and a Lady

The Diabolic Circle

A Splendid Offer

Neighbors

Close the Book

Where But in America

Glory of the Morning

Kissing Goes by Favor

Letters

On a Park Bench

A Sunny Morning

The Travellers

Not Quite Such a Goose

Spreading the News

Rococo

She Loves Me She Loves Me Not

The Florist Shop

Along with these plays, miscellaneous numbers have been given, including readings, instrumental and vocal solos, and pantomimes. These tended to add color and variety. There were three rather special entertainments: The Christmas Program, which was quite delightfully different; the Spanish Program, whose sunny atmosphere and bright colors were deliciously significant of old Spain; and the performance given by the Instano Staff which consisted of various miscellaneous numbers and Booth Tarkington's The Trysting Place.

The government of the Society was placed in the hands of a council consisting of sixteen members. Set rules of behavior and discipline were worked out by the council and approved by the Society.

In fact, the Literary Society has done much good in many fields. The Class of '27 will enjoy looking back to its influence as a very pleasant memory of its well-rounded school life.

Under the influence of Miss Leonard the Young Women's Christian Association was organized in 1898 and has grown in achievement and progress each year.

The aim of the Y. W. C. A. is to serve others to the best of our ability. The Little Sister Plan was carried out by writing to new students during the summer months and in welcoming all of those new to our school at the beginning of the year.

A "Get Acquainted" party was given in Recreation Hall and surely was enjoyed by all who attended. Every Wednesday evening the "Y. W." holds its regular meeting. Many interesting discussions are given on questions most important to girls as normal school students and as the future teachers of Pennsylvania.

With aid from funds received through the sale of eskimo pies on Saturday evenings and the Japanese Bazaar held just before Christmas, it was possible to meet all our national obligations, to increase our contribution to the World Fellowship Fund, and to send from time to time toys to the children at the orphanage and comforts to the aged men and women at the County Home.

Two delegates, Mrs. Macdonald and Pearl Reed, were present at the Student Convention held at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in December. Indiana's Y. W. C. A. was represented by Zora Skinner last June at the Eaglesmere Conference.

Women's Athletic Association

September 15, 1926—Last year's members of the W. A. A. attended a meeting held in Erodolphian Hall at 7:00. The girls have all promised to put their shoulders to the wheel and boost the organization.

September 25, 1926—During the week one hundred and eighty-four girls paid their dues in East Parlor. Things look prosperous for a bigger and better girls' athletic season. This is the largest membership the organization has had in a "coon's age".

September 27, 1926—For the first time in years enough people turned out for a W. A. A. meeting to fill Erodolphian Hall. Oh, yes, about twenty girls were obliged to stand. That's what you call spirit. A committee for the wiener and marshmallow roast was named. The hockey season is under way. Good luck, girls.

October 4, 1926—At four this afternoon about one hundred hungry girls found their way to Reservoir Hill. When they arrived, Sara Blough, Margaret Hogue, and Julia Strozak, our committee, had the fire going at full blast. The wieners and marshmallows were awaiting their fate. They met it. Everyone ate and ate and ate some more. Boy, the things tasted good!

October 26, 1926—W. A. A. business meeting in the regular meeting place. We needed a secretary. Caroline Miller was elected. All hands on deck for a five-mile hike on Monday morning at four. The hockey teams are playing interclass games.

November 1, 1926—The morning has arrived. Ten of us start on the hike. I wonder what happened to the others who promised to go with us? Guess they must be sleepy heads. We had a marvelous time groping around in the dark on the Saltsburg road.

December 7, 1926—Monthly meeting as usual. We shall have a sleigh ride if the weather man will favor us with some snow. Mary Trent, Blanche Ober, and Catherine Vallino are in charge of the sleighing party.

December 13, 1926—The W. A. A. was to have a sleigh ride, but try to find the snow. We won't mind waiting until after vacation.

January 11, 1927—Another business meeting. The snow is here, and we are going on a sleigh ride at two bells on Saturday afternoon. Hurrah! The basket ball teams are working hard. We wish them a very successful season.

January 15, 1927—It is 2:20. We are off! Three loads started. Two came back. The other upset about a mile and a half from the Normal. Sara Blough, Helen Blöse, and Virginia Watson were "banged up" quite a bit and paid the infirmary a visit. They are coming along nicely now. We are planning to do bigger and better things next semester. Watch our dust.

Prigrind Club

In September, 1926, the members of the Primary Group were organized under the supervision of Miss Lillian McLean, Director of the Primary Group and Faculty Sponsor of this organization. The group chose the name Prigrind for the club inasmuch as it represents the Primary group of Indiana from which Pri-gr-ind was derived.

As set forth in the constitution of the Prigrind the four-fold purpose of the organization is:

- A. To be of assistance to its members in their chosen profession while students and also as alumnae
- B. To coöperate with the various departments of the Indiana State Normal School
- C. To assist in keeping up the standards set by the Indiana State Normal School, both when in school and when out in the field of teaching.
- D. To establish a bond of friendship by making the students preparing for Primary teaching members of this social group.

Active membership is open to all Primary girls who have completed their first semester's work and who have made this course their choice. At present the membership is approximately four hundred.

At the beginning of the second semester new members are admitted. From the entire group shall be chosen the officers for the school year beginning September, 1927.

As has been stated, the purpose of the organization is four-fold, and the club endeavors to touch upon all phases of a girl's school life in Indiana. The year's activities have been planned and carried out successfully with this attainment in mind.

The first social event took place early in the year. Miss McLean, assisted by the officers and council, entertained the Prigrind Club and faculty members at tea in the Y. W. C. A. Room. Toward the semester's close an evening party was held in Recreation Hall for the girls of the club. The carefully planned program and the informality of the evening established many new friendships and was a great factor in the upbuilding of sociability in the club.

Plans for Commencement activities are under way, and, among other social gatherings, a Senior-Alumnae Breakfast for the Prigrind Club is anticipated.

Intermediate Education Club

The senior students of the Intermediate Department met January 12 and organized the Intermediate Education Club. The club was formed because it was believed that such a large representation of the student body, with the assistance of our interested faculty adviser, could form a club of which our college would be proud.

Under the direction of Miss McGrath a temporary chairman, Marie Snyder, was appointed, and a constitution committee was chosen. This committee was composed of the following members: Frances Spraggon, Lillie Weinstein, Louise Gordon, and Helen Grotefend. The club is very appreciative of the work done by this committee; their efforts helped, in a large measure, to establish our present Intermediate Education Club, which it is hoped will become an influence in the social and intellectual life of the school.

With the efficient officers as leaders, the club has worked to realize its three-fold purpose: to be social, to be ethical, and to be coöperative. Business meetings were held once a month. Current problems of the department were discussed and settled. The members of the club have found out many interesting things about their work in these active meetings. The club has succeeded in establishing a bond of friendship among the students and teachers of the Intermediate Group and the alumni. The members have coöperated with the other organizations for the promotion of loyalty to our college and for educational progress.

The club held its first social function February 19 in Recreation Hall. The seniors entertained the juniors, the faculty sponsors, and intermediate critics at a very delightful George Washington party. The guests were received by Miss McGrath, the officers, and the council. A very interesting and unusual program was given by members of the class. It consisted of readings and vocal and instrumental selections. A group of girls, in colonial costumes, danced the minuet. When the program was completed, the whole group participated in a cake walk, and the remainder of the evening was happily spent in playing games. The girls of the club already feel better acquainted.

The members of the department are very proud of the club, and with the splendid spirit of coöperation evidenced this year they may hope for rapid growth in the future.

Junior High School Club

The Junior High School Department was organized during the year 1924-25 under the influence of M. J. Walsh. It was organized for the purpose of associating the Junior High School students into a single group that could work together to promote educational work in their field, to inform other departments and the public of their work through a publicity manager, to arouse a keen spirit of competition and yet develop coöperation among the various departments, and to promote social activities for the department and for the entire student body.

In the latter part of September, 1926, the secretary, Jean Morgan, opened the meeting for the nomination of new officers for the ensuing year. The voting resulted in the election of Jean Morgan as president, Dorothy Brubaker as secretary-treasurer, and Melvin Mitchell as publicity manager. In the October meeting, Miss Thralls was chosen as faculty adviser of the department.

The regular meetings are held on the third Friday of each school month, at which time business matters are discussed and social activities are planned. The one big social affair of the department this year was a party held on Saturday evening, January fifteenth.

At a recent meeting, Ruth Wilson suggested that educational programs be a feature of our meetings. In the discussion that followed, those present agreed to accept and carry out these ideas: that reviews of valuable magazine articles be given; that instructors from the Junior High School Department be invited to talk on problems pertaining to their respective fields; that all possible help be given to the student teachers of the group; and that under-classmen be aided in adapting themselves to prevailing Indiana standards.

During the first few weeks of school, the Junior Chamber of Commerce again organized. The annual election was held. The votes, in some cases, ran rather close. At the first regular meeting, and to the surprise of most of the members, impeachment charges were brought against the old administration. This delayed the installation of the newly elected officers. Much interest was aroused by the impeachment. However, when the time for trial arrived, the charges were dropped.

A committee has been appointed to rewrite the constitution. The revision will be presented to the association for its approval or rejection.

During the early part of October the Junior Chamber of Commerce entertained the three commercial classes at the Lodge. Shortly before lunch was served, the girls played an honest-to-goodness football game. The spectators got a kick out of it; the players, bumps. Then the call to lunch. Really, how anyone could survive that rush is more than I shall ever tell you.

The work is not all social, however. At the regular business meetings the needs of the school and the town are discussed. Speeches, debates, mock trials, and music are on the social programmes, which sometimes follow the business meetings.

Several high-school Junior Chambers of Commerce have been installed by the Indiana Normal School.

With the present staff of officers and coöperation of each and every member of the three classes, a most successful year is expected.

Home Economics Club

The students of the Department of Home Economics were agreeably surprised last September when they assembled in the beautifully redecorated department. It has been a source of real enjoyment throughout the whole year.

Social life has been advanced through the organization of a Home Economics Club on September 21. The purpose of the club is to train young women to be active and efficient leaders in home and community life, and to furnish an opportunity for social and professional leadership.

One of the outstanding events of the year was a banquet at the Rose Tea Room. Aside from the delicious repast, it provided an opportunity to get acquainted with all the new members in the department.

In December the president of our club, Alice Clements, graciously invited us to her home on Philadelphia Street, for a Christmas party.

For three afternoons during "Better Home Week" the Practice House was open for inspection to the public and the Commercial, Art, and Junior High School Departments. We were honored by having a distinguished guest, Mr. Alfred Kremborg, the poet. The senior girls living in the Practice House served light refreshments each afternoon.

In December the department gave an exhibit including the work done in Clothing, Millinery, Foods, Nutrition, and Science. It was open from 1:30 to 8:30 P. M. Between eight and nine hundred guests called during the afternoon and evening.

Through the efforts of Miss Collins, director of the department, a four-year course in home economics has been developed. Alice Clements has completed the four-year course and is to be presented for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Home Economics at the June Commencement. Miss Clements has the distinction of receiving the first degree from Indiana State Normal.

Art Club

"We are the smallest department of all, but we will be second to none." The slogan which rings through the art studios is always a sign that some one's creative imagination has been working.

Last year the students and faculty members of this department organized an Art Club. A good beginning was about all that the members were able to accomplish in the length of time they had. But the enthusiastic members of the club vowed to make it a success the following year. When school opened this fall, they found that those who returned had not forgotten the vow and were brimming over with new ideas.

The Art Club was organized for the purpose of stimulating and directing a permanent interest in art, and developing creative ability and skill. The club meets every Thursday afternoon in Studio 3. The first meeting of each month is the regular business meeting. All other meetings are for the purpose of originating and working out projects. The latter part of the business meeting is given over to entertainment. The club has been fortunate enough to persuade some of the faculty to tell of their trips abroad, and to give interesting talks on various subjects.

Two social meetings are allowed a semester. The first social function was a picnic or wiener roast, held on Daugherty's Hill. The remaining social meetings were dinners at various tea rooms.

A committee appointed by the club to choose colors decided instead to choose an animal to be used for their symbol. In order to have an animal that would be purely symbolic of the club, they, wizard-like, had to create, assemble, and graft parts of one animal upon another. The gazelle, a small, elegant swift-footed antelope, was selected to represent beauty and grace, while the horned rhinoceros was chosen to represent the power and strength that are necessary to creation and expression. After combining the body of a gazelle with the head of a rhinoceros, this creation was called a "Gazrhine."

Christmas Vesper Service

The Christmas season, wonderful in itself, was made more realistic and beautiful by the Christmas Vesper service on the evening of December 19, 1926, by the Vesper Choir and seniors of the Music Department.

The program was under the direction of Miss Helen Beaumont, assisted by Mrs. Irma Bartholomew, soprano soloist; Miss Pearl Reed, violinist; and accompanists, Margaret Breaden, piano, and Evelyn Jones, organ.

Artists' Series

The first of the Artists' Series Concerts for this school year was given on Friday evening, November 19, 1926, by Phradie Wells, soprano of Metropolitan Opera Company. Miss Wells offered her program in a most artistic manner, as befits an artist of Metropolitan fame. She was received by an enthusiastic and appreciative audience.

On the evening of February 25, Dr. Thaddeus Rich, violinist, gave a most delightful recital in the school auditorium. Dr. Rich was formerly concert master of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, but, in the last few years, has been touring the country in a series of concerts. He is noted for the beautiful singing quality of his tone and has been classed with the three great violinists, Thibaud, Ussaye, and Sametine. His recital was of a most worthwhile character and afforded great pleasure to the school audience.

On the evening of April 8, 1927, the third of the Artists' Series, sponsored by the Department of Music, was given in the chapel by the New York String Trio. The ensemble consisted of Clarence Adler, pianist, Louis Edlin, violinist, and Cornelius Van Vliet, cellist. The rich and colorful tone quality of their work combined with their mastery of technique made the concert one of the most enjoyable of the school year.

Senior Outing

It rained Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Would it be a nice day Saturday for our Senior Outing? It was, "Nuf Sed."

No classes Saturday morning—that in itself was a relief from the usual schedule. By ten it seemed we were all on our way in small crowds. Hilarity, or should we say hysterics, reigned supreme. Anyhow the walk was started in the right spirit.

Strange to say, there were no deviations from the usual route, for we were all in a hurry to get to the Lodge. The first impression, as we walked up the steep hill, was that of a riot or rebellion. A rope-pulling contest was in progress. We were just in time to see the blanket toss. Some of our beautiful, stately girls rather lost their dignity in that up-rising. The next game in progress was the paddle machine, but we all agree that the most spectacular was the donkey ride. Now some people were afraid we would get hurt. Was not the likeness between the donkeys and their riders enough to insure our safety?

About this time there were yells from different directions, "We want eats!" We got them, and those who wanted them the most were not the only ones who remembered how good they were. Thanks to "Dad" Oswalt.

After lunch those of us who wished to see the football game had to hurry back. Note, I did not say which way we returned. The game was great.

It was a mighty tired set of seniors who tried to "pep it up" at the dance that night. Was it worth it? Unanimous!

INSTANO

The Senior Prom

The excitement started Saturday afternoon at the game. Even though we almost froze, it was quite the thing to show the Juniors our men. Just tradition. Everywhere was heard, "Look who she's with," "The size of the man!" "I imagine he's a mean stepper," and similar Indiana remarks.

Finally the great night arrived with the usual bustle at the North Door and the girls looking for their men. Again one heard, "Where can he be?" "I told him to be here at seven-fifteen and it's seven-twenty-five," and other famous speeches of the prom girls.

It was with pride that she ushered her man down the receiving line. The usual ordeal, but—"Rec" Hall! It was lighted with four immense colored spots. It seemed as if one were being led into a dream rendezvous. Some of the seniors will not forget the chrysanthemums. Ask a few.

With a bang the orchestra had started. Such beauty of color would be hard to find as the spots cast their hues on the many-colored dresses of the girls and the tuxes of the men. The orchestra played our "Indiana pep time." As the hall echoed encore after encore, no one had the slightest doubt that the orchestra was "there." It seemed as if we were scarcely started till we heard the orchestra play, "Home Sweet Home."

There was the usual tendency of the men to linger with their girls, but by twelve all were on their way to bed. That is—the girls.

The Senior Prom is now history, but who can forget?

INSTANO

The Inter-Frat Dance

"Good-bye!" "Don't forget to telephone me." "Be good!" "Merry Christmas!" "Tell Joe I said hello", and similar remarks were heard as the 3:43 pulled away from the campus and the girls and fellows were left alone as only those who were going to the dance stayed over.

What dance? Why the Inter-Fraternity dance. This is considered the best dance of the year—at least by the fellows. How queer it seemed, and spooky without the usual gibber. Loafing in the halls predominated until dinner time. Then—our banquet! "Dad" Oswalt prepared the menu; isn't that sufficient?

After dinner the girls insisted we must let them make themselves beautiful. We didn't demur. The change when we saw them next—no not the girls—the general atmosphere.

The ball room was magnificent with its colored spots which shone on the many tinsel Christmas trees. "Rec" Hall had that subdued, tranquil, mystic look—what's the use; you know what I mean.

The orchestra! Bill Hollin's Blue Ridge Orchestra furnished the "stuff" that made the dance really worth while. It was agreed that Bill Hollin's contortionist movements to the rhythmic beats of the tom toms would alone have made the dance worth while. Can you imagine, we, who are used the "regulars", dancing from nine till two? The music did it.

One o'clock! We can't say we weren't tired, but "go or burst." We "went." Tired as we were, we were sorry to hear the last strains of the last dance.

INSTANO

The Junior Prom

My idea of the prom was a mass of shimmery loveliness, well-pressed tuxes, and perfect marcel. We had all looked forward to it for ages, and when the clock finally forgot other unnecessary nonsense and realized that the most important thing in the life of the "Normal" (except of course, Gov. Fisher's election)—yes, when the clock did wake up and condescended to shove its hands around to the appointed time, we, instead of being all dressed, taking the railing side of the stairs, etc.—weren't nearly dressed, and would you believe it, the girl next door to me hadn't found a pair of hose to wear.

It was fun to have everyone say "Honey, you look darling," but after hearing them say the same thing to everyone else for a period of no less than twenty minutes it got rather monotonous, and I started to think I wasn't the best-looking girl there after all. But—just when I realized that my chances for becoming "Miss Indiana" had vanished—the boy friend took one long, lingering glance, and said "How did you know my favorite color was blue?" I remembered all about it, though—and we went in to dance and talk—and oh—do heaps of things.

It's all over now, but I still contend that a First Year Prom is something no real American school should be without.

INSTANO

The Spring Dance

After interminable waiting the day at last arrived. You know we poor second-year students have to endure while the Seniors and Juniors frolic. Can you blame us for being overly anxious?

Thanks be! The men started to come early and it was, "How do you do" here and "How do you do" there. It surely gives one satisfaction to meet one's close friend's favorite fellow. Sometimes there is a rude awakening but—I'm afraid I'm straying from the subject; how could I?

The men and the girls met early that memorable evening. That seemed to be the general tendency and it surely does one's soul good to see an overly large number of men up here. The receiving line started and truly a derrick was almost needed to get some of them started. They didn't realize it wasn't as bad as it looked.

"Rec" Hall, dressed in inimitable style with the orchestra placed in the center, was a sight for sore eyes, and with such a jolly crowd—well everything was "just right". The orchestra surely knew how to "pep it up." Now what more can anyone ask?

As usual with dances at Indiana it seemed no time until we heard "Home Sweet Home."

The adieus of the people were sad to look upon but—the morrow; there were so many plans. It was agreed that this spring dance was a real success.

The Commercial Tea

Oh! wasn't it wonderful?
Didn't the girls look pretty?
Wasn't it just gorgeous?
Gee! didn't we have a good time?

"What is it all about?" we wonder. Why, it is the Commercial Tea. Let me tell you a little bit about it.

The Commercial Tea has quite a reputation among the girls that were here last year. Why? Because they were here and saw it all.

Let us go back and visualize a little. Can't you see the girls with their bright frocks and picture hats acting as hostesses to everyone? Everywhere you look is a batch of color. It looks like a rainbow. First you see a red, then a pale yellow; a Nile green pops into view, and in the end all the shades are together, forming one of the most pleasing sights to the eye.

Then, Recreation Hall. We know that spring is here by its appearance. There are flowers here, there, everywhere. The lights look like flowers with the sun shining through. The ferns and other flowers draping the pillars and archways take you back to the childhood days when you roamed the woods and gathered the early blossoms that are represented here.

The program is entrancing. It gives you a feeling of awe and wonderment. The girls, in their fairy-like gowns, and the boys, in their spring apparel, dance with a look of ease and poise. The program with its background of springtime, is a great success.

What has happened to Main Hall? It looks as if some fairy had waved her magic wand over it all. It is a picture of home and all its splendor—little cozy nooks lighted by soft lamps, bright cushions strewn around, shining tea sets, and smiling faces. Here is where you come to enjoy your cup of tea, served by the rainbow girls.

The whole affair is surrounded by an atmosphere of splendor, dignity, grandeur, and beauty. Spring has spread her charm everywhere.

Coach George P. Miller

Coach Miller took up the work of Charles Ruffner, who left Indiana at the end of the baseball season. Coach has already won himself into the hearts of the Indiana sport fans, first through the football team that took just one defeat, and then by the basketball team that just missed the Western Pennsylvania championship by a double defeat that was administered by Slippery Rock.

Coach Miller started his athletic career at Oshkosh High School where he was a member of a championship football team. Following his high school record, Mr. Miller attended the La Crosse Normal School where he specialized in physical education. At the Normal, Coach won letters in football, baseball, hockey and other athletics. He holds many gold medals for fancy skating competition throughout the middle west.

At Columbia, Coach played varsity football and varsity baseball. During the summers he has spent his time at New England camps, at Boy Scout camps, and directing community playground work.

Indiana has been most fortunate in securing a coach with the ability of Mr. Miller. He has a personality that goes a long way with the boys, and a versatility in coaching that means more good teams for Indiana.

MANAGER BISHOP

Preston T. Bishop, one of those hard-working managers, always found time to be on the field with the boys during the hours of practice every day. The life of a manager is not one that claims glory after the games, so we take this chance to congratulate "Bish" for his work in taking care of the visiting teams and our boys.

"PETE" GRAF

A coach never had a more dependable man for running interference and kicking drop-kicks than Graf. "Pete" took his bumps in making way for the other backfield men to run the ball. A man is surely worthy of praise when he would rather clear the way for another player to make a touchdown than make it himself—and that's "Pete".

INSTANO

“PUNCH” MCGREGOR

This is another local boy. “Punch’s” play during the greater part of the season was outstanding. When it came to opening a hole in the line “Punch” was there. “Punch” surely deserves all the credit he gets for his football playing.

“PAT” PATTERSON

“Pat” worked hard all season in order to get into the games, and when he got in, he worked with the rest of the team like a regular cog. “Pat” has a fighting heart in a game and always did his best. This is “Pat’s” last year at school. The boys wish you luck, old man.

“MIKE” DAVIS

Here is our forward pass expert. “Mike” was on the receiving end of several long passes which won games for us. In the Altoona game “Mike” took the heart out of our opponents when he caught a thirty-yard pass and went for a touchdown. He has another year in which to continue his good work.

INSTANO

"IRISH" GALLAGHER

Here's the fighting Irishman, and a fighting Irishman he is. "Irish" played very well in all the games. A center has a hard position to play, but Bill played hard and filled it well.

"TINY" EISAMAN

Here's Eisaman! Did you ever see two horses and a wagon go through a stone wall?—no, and you never saw an opposing team go through Eisaman's side of the line. "Tiny" has had lots of football experience, and it surely stood him in good stead this year. We hope he will be back to plug up the old line again next year.

"SALZY" SALSGIVER

Still going strong, "Salzy" transferred his training from 1925 over to 1926 and a prettier (physically) guard is not found on the Normal School teams. "Salzy" was often shifted to the tackle position when Indiana went on the offensive. His tackling and holding were the sensation of the line. Salsgiver is expected back for his senior year, and we predict great things for him.

INSTANO

“VIRG” SAYLOR

“Virg” had to work hard to get out for practice on account of his heavy schedule, but when it came to playing games, “Virg” surely starred. A big man and powerful on the defense. “Virg” was one of the best men on the team to work with.

“TOMMIE” THOMPSON

Talk about your ends all you please, you’ll look far before you find one of “Tommie’s” caliber. When it came to breaking up plays around his end and taking out a man “Tommie” surely did his duty. A dependable man with a character the same.

“BUS” CHALMERS

Boys, here is the fighting, plunging fullback. When “Bus” hit the line there was either a big dent made or a ten yard gain. He backed up the line to perfection. This was “Bus’” third year on the Varsity. We hope that he will fight as winning a battle in life as he fought on the gridiron.

Football

Indiana had lost the championship of Normal Schools of the State of Pennsylvania just one year ago. Shippensburg had been the guilty one to step between the Red and Slate and that coveted honor. They defeated us at Shippensburg by the score, 14-7. But, somehow, that last-minute defeat had put something into the team that has never been there before. It was more than fight—we always had that. It was more than loyalty—for that has never been lacking in Indiana teams. It was an indeterminable something that rushed the men onto the field with a spirit that one seldom sees in schools of our grade, and it was that same something that carried the 1926 gridiron machine to one fighting victory after another.

Coach Miller, issuing his first call to Indiana football men, opened the first day's practice with a squad of at least forty men. A number of regulars were back, around whom a powerful team promised to be built.

Two weeks after the call to arms, Indiana opened up with a practice game with Windber High. Many of the men in uniform were constantly going back and forth between the bench and the game. The Windber boys showed Coach Miller just what the real value of his men was.

Consequently, one week later, Indiana took over Altoona Apprentices in fine style and the drive to a Normal Championship was on.

Lock Haven was trimmed by a big score at Lock Haven. The larger part of the game was played by the men who composed the second string. These men, we have always contended, deserve as much of the fruits of victory as the men who have their names recorded in the newspapers. They are the men who make up the tackling dummies. They are the men who stand the gaff of the season. To them we take off our hats as one-half of the team that represented Indiana during the season of 1926. But anyway, we trimmed Lock Haven in an impressive style, and the prospects for the season brightened up.

Bloomsburg and Shippensburg moved on to Indiana in successive Saturdays for battles that proved themselves dubbed right—they were battles. Indiana emerged safely on the big side of both scores. The spirit was keen—we were winning everything that came along.

But then came the bump. The best of teams get their bumps. Indiana went up to Edinboro so full of confidence that the outcome was not doubted by the worst pessimist. Edinboro had been defeated easily by teams we had soundly drubbed. The old dope failed, however, and back home came the boys with a tin can tied to their tails. This game served to stiffen the team up, and it was a good thing because Kent College was coming along, and so were those whizzes from West Liberty.

Kent was taken into camp, and one more scalp was added to the string. They were defeated on their own camping grounds, which added just that much more to the victory. Last year, remember, Kent slipped up from behind, with one minute to play and tied up the game at six all. But that wasn't their lot this year. The game ended in a decisive victory for the boys from the Keystone State.

But then there was West Liberty to be smothered. No, calm all your fears—we won. Potts and Company represented the fastest, cleanest and cleverest aggregation that we had run up against the whole season. At the end of the first half they were ahead just one point by virtue of a point missed and a point made. But back came the noise in the second half and puff! It was all over but for the history writer to add his bit.

The season is over, and Coach Miller has accomplished a feat that duplicates the seasons past. One little loss checked up against a season of wins. And they were all against teams that are claiming sectional championships. Do we not have the right to truly say Indiana is the Football Champion of this State of Pennsylvania?

The squad was coached by George Miller of Columbia. The managerial force was composed of P. T. Bishop and Ray Miller.

Score: INDIANA 23—KENT 0

The 1926 Indiana Normal grid machine added the fourth consecutive win to its string Saturday, the thirteenth, when it defeated Kent Normal of Kent, Ohio, by the score of 23 to 0.

Indiana entered the game very much the underdog, but came out, as underdogs have a habit of doing, on top. In the course of the game, Kent did not once have the ball within 20 yards of Indiana's goal.

King elected to receive, but after a few line plunges, Barker punted to Kent. Kent punted back, giving Indiana a gain of five yards on the exchange. On the next play Barker passed thirty yards to Chalmers, and it looked like a touchdown for the invaders. However, after line bucks failed to net the necessary yardage, Barker again punted deep into the Kent territory. A Kent back attempted to kick himself out of a hole, but the entire Indiana team broke through on him and Eisaman blocked the kick. Salsgiver fell on it for the first touchdown of the game. Graf missed the try for the extra point. King was hurt making a tackle, and Malcolm went in. The ball see-sawed back and forth for the remainder of the half.

Kent received the opening kick-off, and after two first downs were made, Indiana held. The home boys then piled first down upon first down until the ball was on Kent's 10-yard line. Here they held and then kicked out of danger to Chalmers on their own 35-yard line. Another march started which culminated in Chalmer's ten-yard run for the second touchdown. Graf kicked the goal, and Indiana ended the third quarter on the long side of a 13-0 score.

Shortly after the fourth quarter, Malcolm, who had substituted for Captain King, hit the line in an attempted line buck. Indiana's line had opened up such a hole that Malcolm kept going eluding the Kent secondary defense for another touchdown. Graf, who had been doing excellent work with his educated right toe, again added the extra point. During the rest of the last quarter the ball was constantly in Kent's territory. Toward the end of the game, Barker, standing on Kent's 20-yard line, dropped a three-pointer over for the final scoring of the day.

The team shows the benefit of a remarkable coach, who knows how to get the very best from the men. We truly have a team of men, who are working as a single unit, not one caring to be the individual star.

Score: INDIANA 13—WEST LIBERTY 7

This game was truly the thriller of the season. West Liberty came to us lauded to the skies as the fastest team we had met. It was the last game of the season for both schools and they both were out for a fitting climax to two successful seasons. The blasts of winter could not keep away the crowd of students nor the band that started things moving. When the Red and Slate came onto the field, Cheerleaders Nelson, McCormick, Stover, and Frye started the blood circulating with a long locomotive, following it with the Rab! Rab! Rab! West Liberty! and the game was on.

Salsgiver booted the ball to the West Virginians on their own 10-yard line. Three times Indiana's line was hit hard, and three times West Liberty was thrown for losses. Indiana received the punt, and Barker promptly ran it to West Liberty's 45-yard line. From here a march started, that brought Indiana the first touchdown. "Bus" Chalmers made seven yards and Barker contributed four more for a first down. Captain King swept around left end for 11 yards and another first down. Malcolm went in for King, who had not gotten over his spill at Kent the week before. Chalmers made three more and Malcolm went through for ten more and another first down. Then "Bus" made two, and Malcolm made six, and with the goal only two yards away, Malcolm piled over for the first touchdown. Barker missed the extra point.

In the second quarter, Potts, upon whom West Liberty banked their hopes for a win, made three pretty runs off tackle and around end and scored for the boys from the South. The extra point was kicked and the score stood 7-6 in favor of West Liberty.

Indiana got the jump on her opponents in the third quarter when Malcolm received the kickoff on his own goal line and advanced the ball 18 yards. Right here Barker out-guessed his foe and played "straight" football. Every man in the backfield contributed a first down of which there were eight until Chalmers plunged over the line for the second touchdown, that meant victory for the sons of Indiana. Graf kicked the last score of the year, and Indiana led 13-7.

The last quarter supplied enough thrills to fill a whole game. Potts broke up an attempt at a field goal and ran 30 yards before he was downed. Then there started a series of forward passes that looked like another touchdown for the invaders. King was rushed back at half to stem the aerial advance. On the second attempt at a long pass, King leaped up and hooked the ball from Potts, who was already on his way to the goal. King made 20 yards before he was stopped. Two line plunges, a first down, and our warriors had conquered their biggest obstacle in their rush to the Normal Championship.

INSTANO

Indiana vs. Alleoop

The boys are on the floor, the referee's green shirt flashes; his whistle shrills; the ball goes up in the center, and the game is on. "Peck" McKnight goes up high for the tipoff, gets the jump and tips it to Lahr. Lahr comes in high as Captain John Alexick comes out of his guard position for the pass. "Kid" slips it to him, and Johnny makes one of those wild but beautiful rainbow shots from the right-hand corner, and Indiana has taken the lead with the first basket. Now they go back to the center again; "Peck" flashes signal number 44, and in comes "Tony" Hanna. The same stunt is pulled on the other side of the floor, with "Maggie" Magill making the shot. Oh, but that was a bit tougher than Johnny's shot, and "Peck" had to follow it up, but anyway we now are two baskets to the good. And so the game goes on. During the second quarter, Coach Miller deems it wise to insert "Pret" Bishop into the lineup for Hanna. "Pret" acquits himself well, cornering three baskets before the half ends. The half ends with Indiana leading 20-0.

Here they come again; the armory is packed to capacity (who's lying?); the band is playing; everything is resplendent with color; the referee blows his whistle again (the second time tonight); and the second half starts. But the unexpected happens, as it will sometimes. Alleoop starts an offense that completely baffles the wearers of the Red and Ashes, and in less than the quarter are leading 21-20. Coach Miller is pacing the floor, but he will not submit to defeat. What will he do? What will he do? His cold glance falls upon those trusty shock troops—Notre Dame. He jerked them to their feet with a shriek that starts all the supporters. "Notre Dame!" "Notre Dame!" shriek the angry mob with teeth clenched and thumbs down as the five huskies trot to the reviewing stand for final inspection. "Alleoop, we are here", says Captain Barr. And so they are. Let's see—there are Shelly and McCormick down there at forward, Leonard at center, and Barr and Salsgiver at guards—what magnificent specimens of manhood! But it is no time to tarry. Alleoop is standing shoulder to shoulder waiting for the onslaught, and they will not be disappointed. The forwards play superbly; the center is so good he actually gets a girl after the game; and the guards keep theirs. Well, it's over. Once again the wreath of victory has been draped over the portals of the Red and Ashes, and the gladiators crowned with the spoils of their victory.

Basket Ball

Coach Miller issued a call to basket ball men shortly after the close of the foot-ball season. A surprising amount of material turned out, crowding the armory floor for the beginning of the grind toward winning a place on the squad. After three weeks of preliminary drill the following men received the Red and Slate uniforms: Captain Alexick, Salsgiver, Bishop, Shelley, Davis, Saylor, Barr, and McCormick from last year's team and McKnight, Lahr, Goldstein, Perry, and Leonard—new men on the squad.

January 6 was selected for the opening game. Ten men traveled to Pittsburgh to meet the bone setters of the Pittsburgh Chiropractic School. Our boys opened up with a terrific offensive that spelled curtains for the boys of Pitt. During the third quarter with a lop-sided score already in Indiana's favor, Coach Miller substituted a new team. Some one of the audience yelled, "Here comes Notre Dame," and for the rest of the season the substitute string functioned under that nickname. The score ended in a decided victory for Indiana at 63 to 28.

On January 13, Indiana opened up the season at home. Probably due to over-confidence on our part or to a superior team, Kent College from Ohio showed the way and cleaned up on the long end of a 30-24 score.

California Normal visited us next and took a drubbing to the tune of 36-21. Notre Dame started the game to kid the southern Pennsylvanians along for a quarter. Then the big noise took the floor, and it was all over but the shouting. Later in the season on a return game Captain Alexick and Forward Lahr were lost in the snows somewhere between West Liberty and California, and as a result the Californians had their revenge 33-30.

P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. from Juniata were taken over after a struggle that was just a little bit harder than the score would indicate. Berry, who had starred for Altoona High for several years, was acting as center for the invaders. At the end of the first half it was anybody's game, but after one of these heart-to-heart talks that coaches are so able to give between halves, Indiana came back and ran up a 45-32 score. So far Indiana had only met defeat at the hands of Kent College, and the boys were starting to point to a State Normal Championship game. It never hurt anyone to set an objective that was going to mean hard work, and Coach Miller was well pleased with the attitude the boys were showing.

With this objective in view the Red and Slaters set sail for Clarion, the second Normal team on the schedule. Along about seven o'clock after a peace-pipe dinner with the Clarion boys, Indiana stepped over to their gym for a look at the arena. "Nice dressing room you have here," "Peck" McKnight told one of Clarion's players. "Dressing room nothing, this is our basketball floor," came back the answer to the astounded "Peck". Well, dressing room or not, Indiana knew where to look for the little black hoops and we finished them off 62 to 26. I wonder if it wouldn't be well to mention here the spirit we found at Clarion. Along about the last three minutes, with no possible chance of victory for them. Clarion sunk a basket. The racket that followed drowned out the referee's whistle, and he had to request their silence until the game finished. That type of school spirit bears note. Clarion will some day have a wonderful team if that keeps up. They can't help it. It's enough to drive any five men to success.

Starting off the month of February the right way, Indiana trounced the Erie Cathedral passers 36-22. Some one had unconsciously thrown a bomb into our camp when they lauded the Erie boys to the skies on their past accomplishments. Perhaps it was a put-up job to keep away the cocky feeling that comes when a team is consistently winning. For the first half Indiana acted as if they were waiting for the terrible to happen. Carefully, cautiously, and slowly they played a defensive game rather than a scoring game. The half showed the teams just a few points apart. But after another one of those talks, Coach Miller rushed a team of spirited boys onto the floor. Carefree, careless, and fast they rushed right after those two-pointers polishing up another writeup for the Pittsburgh papers.

February 11, saw the boys on the road again. Lock Haven was the goal this time. After a long ride that dampened the spirits temporarily (a few girls got on at Tyrone) the boys were all set for the Central Normal team. The Lock Haven floor is just twice the size of Indiana's and at least four times the size of Clarion's. The game turned out to be a track meet with Indiana winning all three places in each event. With three minutes to play, Lock Haven had just two points. That sounds a bit far-fetched but it is the truth. Captain Alexick hypnotized his team into a coma for the good of athletics at Lock Haven, and they succeeded in caging a brace of field goals and a foul shot. Coach Snavely from Bellefonte was refereeing the game. Although in fine physical condition, he would glance pleadingly toward the timekeeper who held the whistle that would end the game. The final score read 47-7, and another normal school was out of the way.

At this writing, which had to be finished long before the season will end, the Red and Slate has only the California upset, which occurred at California, against a wonderful season. The team has yet to meet Slippery Rock in a double header that may or may not spell Western Pennsylvania Championship for Indiana Normal. The season has been a most successful one. Practically doubling the score of their opponents, Indiana has seen one of the finest teams ever produced here. The spirit and attendance has been as much as any team could ask for. The boys appreciate the backing of the students and faculty.

The men that have given their time and effort to produce a team worthy of the school are: Captain Alexick, Salsgiver, McKnight, Bishop, Lahr, Leonard, Shelley, McCormick, Barr, Saylor, Goldstein, Hickes, Perry, Muschella, and Magill. These men, although of course they could not work in every game, stuck through the season, aiding the coach in developing the team that represented Indiana during the season of 1927.

INSTANO

Baseball

Just as soon as the boys returned to school from their Easter vacation, Coach Ruffner issued the call for baseball candidates. The roll showed that the letter men out were Kunkle, Salsgiver, Bush, Brennan, Maley, Shelley, and Magill. These men formed a powerful nucleus around which Coach Ruffner could build a battery, infield and outfield. Bush and Maley comprised the pitch-catch combination, while Salsgiver, Brennan, and Kunkle stood on the sacks, with Magill and Shelley back in the garden. To this material came Barr, Hickes, and Meades to strengthen the infield, with Painter, McCormick and Graf as prospective outfielders.

We won't call this an alibi but just a coincidence. Wasn't it peculiar how many games Indiana had won up to the seventh inning and lost along about the ninth?

The game with Grove City at that place was the best track meet of the season. Ruffner always maintained that ball games should end in the seventh inning especially with a score of 11-9 Indiana's favor, but when the last ball was lost, Grove City was ahead 17-12.

The thrill of the season came in the Indiana-Shadyside match at Indiana. The score stood 1-0 in favor of Shadyside when Indiana came to bat in the ninth inning. Salsgiver, with one out got a hit and stole second. On a fast infield sacrifice, Salzy eased into third. Ruffner injected pinch-hitter Painter into the lineup with instructions to bring the tying run in from third. As it is and always will be with pinch-hitters, Painter took two wallops at the air with little accomplished, and on the next pitch Salzy started for home. Just as he started a wind storm struck the dry infield and enveloped the play with a blanket of yellow dirt. When everything finally cleared, Salzy, Shadyside's catcher, and the umpire were in a heap somewhere around the plate. We still haven't figured it all out, but anyway Shadyside won by the tight score 1-0.

The end of baseball marked the end of the coaching reign of Coach "Charlie" Ruffner. He has been at Indiana since the fall of 1923, devoting the larger part of his time to bettering athletics of the school. The boys who have worked under him are his backers to the end. We hated to see "Coach" go, but the best of friends must part. Here's to you, old man, from the boys. Rah! Rah! Rah! Ruffner! The best of luck and some more good football teams for some other school.

The following is the baseball schedule as played through during the season of 1926:

Two games with Bellefonte Academy, Shadyside Academy, Grove City College, St. Vincent's College, and several independent teams from the western part of the state.

Track

The track season at Indiana during the spring of 1926 was considered the most successful experienced here in many years. The track laid out on the athletic field was constantly in use during the afternoons of the spring. Coach Saunders made the best of the time allotted to him in the short season by rounding his proteges into fine physical shape. They were fully prepared to go to the Penn Relays at Philadelphia at least a week before the carnival started. King, Borland, Alexick, and Patterson were chosen to represent Indiana at the American Championship of Normal Schools race. Besides these men there was an entire track and field squad that left for Philadelphia. The race was run and won in fine style, and for the second year in succession, Indiana State Normal has been honored with the American Championship of Normal Schools for the One-Mile Relay.

The Monday following the relay carnival the whole team went to Westchester to compete in a dual meet. Indiana won from Westchester by a wide margin. The sprints were taken care of by Borland and King. Alexick and Borland ran the middle distances. Patterson took everything over a half mile. The field events were taken over by Shaffer in the high jump and pole vault. Rae represented Indiana in the weights. Chalmers easily won all the hurdle races of the day.

The school was proud of the accomplishments of this team of athletes and looks for great things from this year's team with many of the old men back again to form the nucleus.

Tennis

Tennis seems to be the password at Indiana and we doubt if very many students are not the owners of racquets and balls. We had some very good exhibitions in tennis both last spring and last fall, and the season was very successful.

The players became so numerous last spring that at five o'clock in the morning the campus was alive with hopeful students. Some played on the cement walks and some on the green athletic field on account of the crowded courts. It seemed unnecessary for so many to be disappointed every day, and it was very evident that something had to be done. The matter was taken up by the Athletic Association, and it was decided to issue permits from the mail booth in order to make it possible for larger numbers of students to have an opportunity to play tennis. The tennis day was divided into periods similar to the class day only starting at five o'clock in the morning and continuing until seven o'clock at night, and each student was limited to an hour's playing a day unless the courts were not signed for. This system has proved very satisfactory and does away with all disappointments and confusion.

Our annual tournament was played here with Slippery Rock last spring. The results of our school tournament entitled Mary McDonnell, Elizabeth Bergmann, Frances Spraggon, and Genevieve Lowman to play for the girls against Slippery Rock; and Edgar Hilgendorf, William Paterick, Clair Borland, and Ray Chrissman for the boys. Slippery Rock won the tournament on total points scored in all the matches.

The summer tennis season was very successful. The Athletic Association conducted a tournament, and six letters and six certificates were awarded to the winners.

The weather proved a bit disastrous to the fall tennis tournament. About fifty students were entered, some in several events. The girls' and men's singles and doubles had just reached the second round when the weather put a finishing touch to the season. The mixed doubles were the only part of the tournament that completely finished.

With such a large number of players and a larger number of enthusiastic beginners it looks as if Indiana must soon increase the number of courts on the campus.

Although the student body is very much interested in football, basket ball, baseball, and track, tennis seems to have a net around all because it gives everyone a chance to show his individual skill.

Girls' Athletics

There are an endless number of sports to which the Physical Education Department would like to devote its time. However, it is almost impossible to realize this aim; so they must concentrate their efforts on the major sports.

Basket ball, so far, claims first place. Indiana girls, after last year, have shown that they have the fight and ability in basket ball to go through as stiff a season as any team can. In a different type of program this year the department has made it possible for many more students to participate and to receive the benefits of thorough and competent coaching.

Hockey, this fall, brought forth much good material that had been previously hidden. As no inter-collegiate games were scheduled, the intramural program was a splendid one and did much to arouse the spirit of enthusiasm and competition. Indiana needs more of this sort of program.

Swimming has not taken its proper place as yet because of lack of equipment. It is little wonder that the students are all watching the gradually rising gymnasium with great anticipation. The thought that it is to hold an immense pool is reason enough.

Bowling is something new this year, and it looks as if it were going to be a great success.

Although the Physical Education Department has directed these athletics, the Women's Athletic Association has worked in conjunction with the Department and has been a great help in shaping the mental, moral, and physical life of the institution. It deserves much credit.

First place should be given to Miss Hartman who came to Indiana this year from the University of Iowa. The graduation of the class of '26 and interfering schedules of this year left very few girls with which to start a new season. Regardless of this difficult situation Miss Hartman has made a team to be proud of.

The first call for try-outs came December first and about sixty capable-looking girls turned out. So there is little wonder that in the few weeks of elimination the coach had difficulty in choosing twenty-one of the best for her squad.

The girls are at the training tables now and are hard at work practicing every night.

How fortunate we are to have Phyllis for our captain. Never was there a swifter or more dangerous center in Indiana's history. Phil carried us through last year, and we know that no team can fail with her at their head.

Hen is new this year, and we are mighty proud to add her to our squad. She played on her high school varsity four years, and her training has been our gain. Mary's chief characteristics of note are her quaint smile and her readiness for action.

Forward

HEAZLETT

Blairsville

Mary Jane is also a new member and high school varsity girl. She was a stone wall on the defense and a very accurate shot. She has brought Indiana success, and we hope she continues her good work next year.

Forward

LUCHSINGER

Blairsville

Blairsville again represented! Leona and Mary Jane certainly have good team work, which is due to the fact that they played four years in high school together.

Guard

Good ole' faithful Jean! She certainly knows how to stick, and there is no forward going to get past our Jean. She deserves much credit for helping to win the first game of the season.

Jeannette

These new girls waste no time! Fast is no word for Peggy! She can block any forward and is far better than the slogan, "They shall not pass!" We hope you stay with us, Margaret.

With such girls composing our varsity we are looking forward to success in the following schedule:

Jan. 22—California at Indiana
Jan. 29—Slippery Rock at Indiana
Feb. 5—Juniata at Huntingdon
Feb. 19—Juniata at Indiana
Feb. 26—Clarion at Indiana

Girls' Track

Track for girls! Hurrah! It is here at Indiana at last! With an enthusiastic coach, an eager crowd of girls, and an ideal spring, we started our training late in April, 1926.

Miss Reiss held our beginning practices on East Campus, where we could make our first falls and blunders with nature our only audience. As we progressed, we moved up to the athletic field, and there with our hurdles we learned to act like thoroughbreds.

We were all surprised at the skill displayed in the running high and broad jumps; no wonder, with such competent assistants as Chalmers and King. We don't believe there is any girl who can throw like "our Phyllis" or who can run like "our Shorty". You must know it wasn't all a bed of roses. It wasn't much fun to knock over hurdles with bare knees or to run with an aching back or to jump when you didn't know where you were going to land. But in time and with training we accomplished our several feats.

We felt that we weren't quite ready for collegiate competition; so we contentedly arranged an inter-class meet, Juniors vs. Seniors. The turnout that day proved the interest the whole school felt in this new undertaking, and Miss Reiss may well have been proud of her coaching. The Juniors came out with flying colors. The Seniors?—well, they were never far behind.

We have made the start, underclassmen, and now we leave the rest to you.

TO MY READERS:

This column is intended to help all those who are in trouble or in need of advice in their most intimate affairs. I sincerely hope that you will all write often and tell me all your worries.

Cordially yours,

BERTHA BAREFACTS

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

I have decided to go to I. S. N. S., and having lived in a remote part of the state, I am in doubt as to the correct equipment for a school girl. Please advise me at once.

"HICK"

DEAR HICK:

I recommend the following list, suggested by Donald Ogden Stewart in his latest book, Perfect Behavior.

- 1 Dress, chine, crepe de, pink, for dancing
- 1 Dress, chine, crepe de, pink, for petting
- 1 Dress, Swiss, dotted blue, or
- 1 Dress, Swiss, undotted, white
- 15 yards tulle, best quality, pink
- 4 bottles perfume, domestic, or
- 1 bottle, perfume, French
- 12 dozen Dorine, men's pocket size
- 100 boxes aspirin, for dances and house-parties
- 1 wave, permanent, for conversation
- 24 waves, temporary
- 10,000 nets, hair
- 100,000 pins, hair
- 1 bottle of Quelques Fleurs, for Knockout

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

When I came to school on the train, I was subjected to many unwelcome advances from (I presume) traveling salesmen. Can you advise me what to do to repel those advances?

GAYNELLE

DEAR GAYNELLE:

The best advice I can give you is to refer you to Donald Ogden Stewart's Perfect Behavior. In case you do not have a copy I shall quote.

"I find the surest way to protect yourself against such advances is to buy a copy of the Atlantic Monthly. Next to a hare lip that is the safest protection for a traveling girl that I know of; it has, however, the one objection that all the old ladies on the train are likely to tell you what they think of Katherine Fullerton Gerould, or their rheumatism."

INSTANO

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

We girls of Indiana are just rising in arms. Can you imagine—we have been forbidden to wear dresses that do not cover our knees. Why, I should think, with the freedom the American girl enjoys today, that they would only be too glad to allow us to wear such comfortable clothes. Besides, the young men enjoy us so much more when we are up to date. Perhaps we ought to all dress in the old-fashioned hoop skirts, and then maybe we would be refined and cultured.

Do you think the girls' dresses and stockings should meet? Please reply immediately as my dressmaker is awaiting your advice.

ANN

DEAR ANN:

Let your conscience be your guide. The young men of today are not interested in the length of your dresses, that is, not much length.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

Well, here I am again. Your cold cream worked beautifully. Now I have another bit of trouble that I wish you would help me with. Here at school we have about seventy-five sororities, and I have been asked to join at least thirty of them. Such popularity must be deserved and has somewhat perplexed me. Please tell me what to do.

ELFREDA

DEAR ELFREDA:

As I remember Indiana, it matters little which sorority you start out with; you belong to them all at some time or other during your stay. Start with your roommate's gang or the girl next door and work up.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

A number of us girls who are non-sorority girls have decided to organize a club that is to be entirely different from any other club in the school. Our plans are to have girls who are capable of filling the following requirements:

1. Never have a blind date.
2. Never do the Charleston or any other crude dance.
3. Never have words with any other member of the sorority.
4. Never have lights after ten o'clock.
5. Never have girls in our rooms who are boisterous enough to disturb our good hall teacher.
6. Always be glad to welcome back any of our alumni.
7. Never dance with a boy on Saturday night.
8. Never play bridge.
9. Never eat between meals.
10. Never have the B. F. over the week-end.
11. Spend Quiet Hour in our own rooms.
12. Always wear high-topped shoes.
13. Never date in the library.
14. Never say "dam".

TOMMY

INSTANO

DEAR TOMMY:

Your club sounds as if it were on the way to a huge success, but don't you think it is just a bit too high-strung? Harp-like, I mean. And did you say a number of you girls? I'm surprised at the plural expression. I should be pleased to hear from you within the next two weeks as to whether or not your club still exists.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

Do you think that a difference in height has any great effect on true love, providing the girl is the taller?

MALEY

DEAR MALEY:

My opinion is that love may flourish under those conditions. We have examples of this every day in the love portrayed between Ma and Pa in "That Son-in-law of Pa's".

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

I have a very difficult problem to bring to you. I am a professor at the I. S. N. S. and am somewhat like Ichabod Crane. Now don't misunderstand me. I can't say I look like Ichabod, but like him I have a soft and foolish heart toward the opposite sex.

This is my problem. I can't mete out punishment to females. Why does my heart jump when some flapper rolls her eyes at me? I know that she is shallow and has probably mascaraed her eyelashes to give the effect of wistfulness, but nevertheless my heart will not behave. Probably you can send me a heart-controlling machine. If not, at any rate, I am waiting for your advice.

WEAK HEART

DEAR WEAK HEART:

Are you married? If not, you are in love. If so, you are a fool. Watch your step.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

I have been going with a young man here at school, who has seemingly thought the world of me. But it has become necessary for me to constantly wear glasses. Since then he has been inclined to avoid me. I detest the idea of losing him through such a slight cause, and it is absolutely necessary that I keep my glasses on. Won't you tell me how I can win back my young man?

FISCUS

DEAR FISCUS:

I don't believe the young man was justified in dropping you for so slight a cause. Are you sure that it was just your wearing glasses that turned him away? I wouldn't worry over him if he lets a little thing like that come between you. Let him go. If he were a real man, he could get around the glasses all right. Think it over.

INSTANO

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

Oh! what am I going to do? It is just 60 hours since I heard from my Piemme. I cannot bear it any longer. He always has a letter in my box each morning, and now he has gone and missed. Telegram me what to do, I'm worried.

PEG

DEAR PEG:
Indiana, Pa.

LOVE MUST HAVE GROWN COLD. SEND POT OF GERANIUMS IMMEDIATELY.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

I have a perplexing problem which has bothered me greatly. I know you can help me, and I shall anxiously await your advice. Ever since the day I came to Indiana, I have faced this problem, and the worst of it is, every day it becomes more annoying.

When I arrived at Indiana, a party of twenty-five girls met me at the train, and right then and there the trouble started. They couldn't agree on which one would carry my suitcase. I felt awfully bad about it too, for I didn't know which one to pick. However, they decided to take turns; so that let me out.

This was only the beginning of a series of such encounters. I have been wondering if I am the lucky possessor of the "It" which Elinor Glynn writes so much about. She says, "'It' is that quality possessed by some few persons which draws all others with its magnetic life force. With it you win all women. Without it, you take a chance—and are not certain of winning anyone or of keeping her when won."

I don't want to wreck all these girls' lives, and I am afraid that is what I am doing. I try to shun them, but still they persist. What shall I do?

MIKE

DEAR MIKE:

I am afraid you are the lucky(?) possessor of the "It" which Elinor Glynn speaks of. This is a very difficult thing to deal with. My advice would be to eat garlic daily. It is your only protection.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

I am tall and slender and in my own home town have always had very clever-looking girls for my companions. Now that I am here at school, things seem to have changed considerably.

The first day of school I was shown to my room, and in it I found a sad-eyed fat girl. I was told that she was to be my roommate for the year. I had drawn a blank! She said she came from Dinglewood and that her paw had made his money in oil, and SHE IS RELIGIOUS! But she does my lessons for me every night. How should I treat her socially?

ETHEL

INSTANO

DEAR ETHEL:

Since she does your lessons for you, you must treat her right. Take her with you on dates. If your Boy Friend can not arrange a date for your roommate, do not go yourself. Insist that all the boys dance with her on Saturday night. Boost her stock!

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

My roommate and I have had the worst fight, and it's all over a picture, too. You see, she goes with the most homely man at home, and she insists on putting his great big picture right on the bureau. Why, it has so got on my nerves that I can't sleep at night. And now I have just received a picture of my man, and, O Miss Barefacts, he's just wonderful! Big brown eyes that speak to me night and day, and that little nut of a roommate tells me that she is willing to take her man down if I will only put mine on the bottom of my trunk. Can you imagine such a thing? Why there is no comparison between the two. I won't take mine down, and she won't hers. Please, please, Miss Barefacts, send me some of your good advice.

PHIL

DEAR PHIL:

I have a little plan here that ought to work. Place your beds in the middle of the room. If you sleep on the right side, put your bureau on the right side of the room with your handsome man on it, and let your roommate do likewise on the other side of the room. Try this and see if you both don't sleep better.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

I am a young girl considered good looking by my friends and have often been told so by a number of admirers of the opposite sex. I have just entered Indiana Normal and in the past three weeks have been the recipient of a number of invitations to date the boys here. Dating is against the rules of the institution, and my girl friends have warned me against dating, but the boys are so different from the ones at Podunk that I hate to refuse. One plump boy, and, I might say, a member of the football team, has been unusually persistent. Haven't you some advice you can give me?

LILYAN

DEAR LILYAN:

From your letter I judge you have created quite a stir at Indiana. But a Freshman is usually too young to encourage attentions from college boys, and I would suggest that you listen to the older girls and abide by the rules of the school. However, if you are lonely, why not enjoy the company of all the boys instead of tying yourself down to one? When one is so young, it is really the better plan.

DEAR MISS BAREFACTS:

I tried your plan and encouraged all the boys on six successive nights. The sixth date was the last one, and I seem to have lost my popularity. I have just found out that all the boys were members of the same fraternity, or whatever you call one of those things, and now even my plump football friend has left me. Please be more careful how you advise me in the future.

Registration

Here begins the tale of Norman Normal and his search for education.

For eighteen years our hero lived a placid, easy-going, irresponsible life. Then suddenly he was confronted by the terrible fact that his high school days were over: so there was nothing left but to go to college. Hearing near and far the worthy plaudits of Indiana, Norman was forced to admit that he and I. S. N. S. had been made for each other.

With much embarrassment and little feeling he shook hands with Dora before the train arrived, which should bear him and his slicker, tennis racket, and uke to the seat of learning. His mother, with many admonitions and much advice, kissed her son, again cautioning him to remember Dora and to keep away from those awful fraternities. Thus he departed.

As he stepped from the train, confident of a warm greeting, his heart sank—no one recognized him—no one wanted to, apparently. He was a stranger in a strange land.

But forth he went to register. The deed was done. He was a collegian! From that time on he could ride in anything, wear anything, and do anything, and his alibi was good—he was collegiate!

INSTANO

First Saturday Night Dance

Norman's first Saturday night proved to be something of an ordeal. Having noticed the gala air of the girls' attire as they entered the dining room that first Saturday night, Norman was moved to inquire why. The social organization of the school was painstakingly explained to him—on this night dancing was permitted until eight o'clock! Thrills and heart throbs! The boys intimated that the stag line had a perfectly marvelous time due to lack of competition.

With no misgivings, rather with a heart full of hope and expectancy, Norman entered Rec Hall clad, to say the least, informally—garnet jersey and gray corduroys. Though he apparently did not suffer from lack of feminine attention, it would probably be embarrassing to recall such choice conversational tid-bits as he occasioned. Norman never again attended a Saturday night dance, be it ever so humble, in jersey and corduroys.

INSTANO

Second Wednesday Night

As Norman light-heartedly walked from the dining room a brilliant idea descended upon his fertile brain. Tonight he would dance too. He needed recreation, and that in the most desirable form. Cautiously he changed his jersey for the more conventional coat, not caring to repeat the incident of the preceding Saturday evening. Boldly, with no thought for the morrow or consequences he strode into Rec Hall, cast a roving eye toward the stag line which was not, and secretly thanked the gods that be.

Could he have surprised a gleam of admiration in that blonde's eye? Squaring his shoulders he headed in the general direction of that girl with long hair when who should confront him but a faculty member. Like a tiger he stood ready to defend his rights and privileges. But alas, it appears he had none! He was told in a kind but firm tone that there was no dancing for men on Wednesday nights, nor did that particular faculty member seem disposed to further his cause on the matter of its being granted. Another humiliation! He thought it had been too good to last.

INSTANO

Hallowe'en Party

Before many weeks had passed Norman had won the favor of one I. N. S., "the girl of his dreams," as he whispered (to himself) over and over. It was I. N. S. who initiated him into the mysteries and deliciousness of Grovology; it was she who told him all the choice bits of gossip which issued from Sutton Hall; it was she also who told him about the Hallowe'en party to which he and his fellow students had not been invited.

Vividly I. N. S. described to him the pulling down of curtains, the salvaging of bath towels from drawer and laundry bag, the appropriating of cushions, lampshades, and blankets, the mad search for the ugliest, oldest, most absurd outfit of the party which each one hoped to have for herself. Red Grange and Peck's Bad Boy were described in a manner which defied David Wark Griffith's art—the Grand March in which beautiful Egyptian princesses walked with bold bad men and apaches, apachesses, innocent rabbits, buxom country lassies, Spanish dancers, and trick monkeys walked hand in hand. At a late hour (ten o'clock, to be exact) the merry-makers returned to their rooms without the misfortune of a single one's being dismissed from the floor for doing the Charleston.

INSTANO

Initiation

For a week now Norman had not talked to I. N. S., nor indeed to any girl—he was being initiated. What a world of punishment that ritual does conceal—but wait, his turn is coming.

For three days he has been obliged to wear that ridiculous collar, use a bib at table, carry a cane, and be subjected to other similar humiliations.

Never will he forget the agony, yes actual agony he experienced sitting on the Greek seat, holding a tin cup, and wearing a sign which read, "I am blind." And he, having reached the maturity of eighteen years. Why, it was abominable. And yet, one had to belong to a fraternity if one wanted to rise in the social scale. And no doubt some fellows have to be treated like that. Cheeky—that's what they were—down-right cheeky. Didn't know their places. Have to be taught somehow. And anyhow it will soon be over, and then—next semester!

INSTANO

First Football Game

Enter our hero, Norman, resplendent in maroon sweater and slate knickers. On his arm leans the ravishing I. N. S. In his hand he carries a cane and from its tip, fluttering to and fro, hither and yon, in the gently stirring breezes are—guess, children! Right, ribbons of noble red and slate which Norman and I. N. S. will wave gloriously as our heroes of the mud dash over the goal line, the pigskin clutched tightly to them.

Norman and I. N. S. have not had quite enough time to learn all the songs and yells; so in order to be on the safe side they have brought the sheets upon which one with good eyesight might read them.

As the game progresses, Norman sees where the coach made his mistake and seeing his duty to his God, his country, and his school, he marches up to the coach, points out his mistake and tells him how it may be rectified. Norman can see at once how pleased the coach is to have anyone tell him these things, so he makes up his mind to keep at it. And Norman's no piker—he'll tell the coach when he sees a good play! With a word of cheer and encouragement to the coach Norman trips gayly back to I. N. S. to tell her what a good old horse the coach is, after all.

Senior Prom

"—and would you like to go?" Thus quoth I. N. S. Like to go to Senior Prom? Why it was like being asked whether he would accept a million dollars! Happily he accepted and continued on his way.

But heavens, where to get a tux—! For the next two days he feverishly questioned every speaking acquaintance of the male persuasion, as to his willingness and ability to lend his tux. After a period of frantic searching he was rewarded with the loan of a tux, a little worn, and not a custom-built fit, but what matter—it was a tux.

Having come to man's estate he was privileged to discuss music, partners, and restrictions with the rest, of which opportunity he availed himself with alacrity and grace.

On the fateful evening, our hero, with the steady gleam of triumph in his eye and a give-me-more-worlds-to-conquer expression on his face, stood at North Door. The hour was 6:45. At seven he was still standing there—alone. His heart pounded queerly. Had I. N. S. forgotten? As he went over the sequence of events as they had happened, a question repeatedly popped into his head to worry him—Had she really asked him to—? Ah, there she is now.

Quarts and quarts of punch, millions and millions of people, numberless nods and warnings from faculty row, and his first prom was—over!

Thanksgiving Vacation

Having been at the court of learning ten long weeks, during which period Norman, in so far as possible, had remained true to the memory of Dora, the strain was beginning to wear on him by the time Thanksgiving vacation came around.

He chuckled as he thought of the greeting he would give Dora—he'd show her he wasn't so dumb. "Hmm," he mused, "a few weeks at college certainly put the finishing touches on a fellow in the matter of sophistication. Three months ago I'd have blushed and shrunk from the thing I'm going to do, but now—why—there's no other sensible way about it. And I hope Mother and Dad are there so they can see how things stand with me now. It'll probably surprise 'em, but I can't remain an infant forever. Especially at college!"

As the train neared the station Norman trembled at the devilry of his plan. Would he dare? Especially in the presence of Mother and Dad? He would, by George, he'd show 'em! And so, blushing furiously, he got off the train, hastily shook hands with the fond parents and—kissed Dora, in front of everybody!

INSTANO

Christmas Party

The Monday before Christmas Norman was busy! In fact he wouldn't have been at home to Mr. Coolidge himself, for he was decorating the dining room. Quite bewildered, Norman had been pressed into service in this capacity, and truth to tell, his heart was only half in his work.

Rods of green rope, miles of red, millions of gorgeous holiday bells, hundreds of trees to be trimmed with tons of "icicles" and between times at least fifteen step-ladders to be moved at once in totally different directions by the same person, namely, Norman.

With nothing more brain-tiring to do than act as special messenger for all the above-mentioned things, Norman had plenty of time for soliloquizing—

Why couldn't they be sensible about this decorating business? No one needed all that stuff to remind him it was Christmas. Hadn't everyone been good and broke for the last two weeks? And if decorating helped to create the Christmas spirit, why couldn't everyone bring his own candle-stick and arrange it to suit himself? Darn—Izzy wanted the ladder from way over there—!

INSTANO

Fraternity Dance

With a sigh of pity for those who had not his opportunity to go to the dance, Norman did his best to cheer them on their way home. "How bravely they bear up," thought he, as the train pulled out with many cheery good-byes and shouts.

Ah, free at last! With frantic haste he made for the dining room where he ate but sparingly of the steak and mushrooms. Like one going to a four-alarm fire he tore down the street to his room, burst into the house, and started the water in the tub. When he emerged from the bathroom, cold but triumphant, the day was still only fourteen hours old and the dance was not until eight. To go out was out of the question. Might as well start to dress—probably take from now until 7:30 to finish, anyhow.

At three o'clock he started looking for a collar button; at 6:30 he was still looking, and his progress was in danger of being impeded by lack of vocabulary.

His arrival at Rec Hall was heralded by nine booms of the clock. He danced ceaselessly until—

As the train pulled out next morning at 5:55, Norman was seen in derby and tux fixing a blowout on some fair Juliet's car. The boys waved a cheery good-bye to him.

INSTANO

Second Semester

It was with discerning eye of a true sophisticate that Norman met the train which brought the new boys. With the practiced eye of an old timer, so he fondly assured himself, he separated the sheep from the goats. Vividly he imagined himself the confidante and bosom friend of some; the heartless, cruel, initiating task-master of others. Quite jauntily he offered to carry the bag of one manly infant but was glared at suspiciously by the arrival.

Nor were the girls ignored by our hero. Here he prided himself on his good taste and sound judgment. And before he had gained East Door he had formulated the speech in which he would ask Her to the Junior Prom. She was a queen. And mature—no silly little flapper for him; couldn't stand their giggling and chattering, he decided all at once. A full-blown rose—he recalled the expression vaguely—that's what she was.

But more Welsh luck was in store for him—as that dizzy Betty rushed up, the Queen was clasped by filial arms, and Mother was welcomed to Indiana. It was too much—positively the last straw. Norman broke down and wept like the most hardened of criminals and went and registered.

Junior Prom

This prom business was a kind of give and take. I. N. S. had asked him to hers; now he must ask her to his. And so he did! He assured himself over and over during the next three weeks that it was only for I. N. S.'s sake he was going. She apparently took such juvenile delight in mob scenes. But everyone was going so he'd make the most of it.

At seven I. N. S., attired in best bib and tucker, was at North Door watching, as it were, for young Lochinvar, who had not come into sight. Dire thoughts found lodging places in I. N. S.'s usually innocent brain. This time it was I. N. S.'s turn to wonder whether he really had said he'd come. There was no doubt about it—he had asked her—had even appointed the hour.

As he came in sight, I. N. S. fled upstairs where she wasted fully ten minutes doing those myriad insignificant things girls do to waste time. Ready at last! She'd fix that young man—too darn smart, that's what he was!

Looking demurely hasty I. N. S. tripped downstairs, sauntered up to Norman and, with a wickedly apologetic glint in her eye, murmured, "Sorry to have kept you waiting, but I've been so busy—" and walked into Rec Hall. With a smile on his lips and murder in his eye Norman followed.

INSTANO

Special Prom

As a duty to the school Norman felt called upon to attend the third and last prom of the year. Of course proms were nice—for anyone who liked them, but really they became a bit boresome for one who had gone to two since his arrival. But then as has been said, he prided himself on being able to see his duty and doing it nobly.

The receiving line—ah! Secretly he exulted. He could show Elizabeth, as his siren had been called by some doting aunt, that here was one guy who didn't have to be introduced to everyone in the line. No sir! They knew him—his personality had stamped itself indelibly upon the minds of all who attended the institution. Thus he reasoned.

But alas! Evidently there was one whose mind was unworthy of the name—he not only asked Norman his name, but he had him repeat it! Hate and desire for revenge possessed the heart of our fair, young Rollo—he would regret—!

Disconsolate and rash, Norman took no thought for consequences and—Charles-toned! Tap, tap (shoulder) “Young man, that's not the spirit of Indiana,” and again Norman was belittled! How fortunate that the proms were over, for Norman wouldn't have gone to another one this year for a million dollars. No, he wouldn't have—he said so himself!

INSTANO

Easter Vacation

Norman thought he just couldn't wait for Easter vacation so he could wear his new knickers and his dink. For three weeks before that time his mind was in a veritable ferment—should he wear his striped socks or his blocked ones? Personally he preferred striped ones, but his—er—limbs were—well, to say the least—a bit shapeless, and the green in the blocked ones matched the dink. But fate intervened and, happily or unhappily, decided the question for him. The day before he was to go home he was dealt a cruel blow. It happened in this way.

Two weeks before Easter he lent the striped socks, and the borrower had most carelessly sent them to the laundry whence one sock has never returned.

"If," thought Norman, "I might only have that one returned there might perchance be enough left so that, by cutting that one up and doing a bit of skillful maneuvering, I might make the other one whole." Which only goes to show the supreme optimism of our hero, since the aforementioned returned hose had come back in ribbons.

But one goes home himself even if one's socks do not. Hence Rollo, again arrayed in a manner that would put King Solomon himself to shame, appears at East Gate, bag in hand and dressed in those collegiate knickers and socks, and—climaxing the whole effect—a dink "just like a real freshman!"

INSTANO

Commercial Tea

The social season certainly takes its toll of one's energies. The Commercial Tea, something else again. One had to attend if one were in the swim at all. Society demands some sacrifices, and this apparently was one.

A hot day, a sweltering day. Ye gods, what a mob! No Charleston would be done on that floor with that mob, was the thought which ran in Norman's mind as he peeked through the doors of Rec Hall—Rec Hall gayly decorated and festooned, lovely in design, exotic in coloring.

With the assumed resignation of a Saint Catherine or a Saint Anthony, Norman piloted I. N. S. hither and yon dodging fashionably poked-out elbows and kicked-up heels, shouting sociable little snatches into I. N. S.'s ear as the music softened sufficiently to permit that.

At last the dance was over! With a pitiful display of his somewhat latent sense of humor, Norman's roommate observed that he, Norman, looked as though he might have just stepped out of a steam bath. With difficulty Norman controlled himself, promising himself justification at some future date, and in some less conspicuous spot. With a withering glance for his misled companion Norman started on his fourth gallon of scalding tea.

INSTANO

Commencement

For the fifth time Norman had reassured I. N. S.'s father that it wasn't the heat—it was the humidity. For the fifth time Norman had consigned all commencements in general and this one in particular to a still hotter place. For the fifth time Norman had called a judgment upon the man or devil who had decreed that collars were to be worn at all important functions this season. For the fifth time (within three minutes) Norman had shaken his watch and held it, frowningly, to his ear. And for the forty-fifth time Norman had asked himself why he had come to Commencement.

Ahhh—! At last the diplomas. Did they give one to each one in the class? Heavens, at that rate—two minute speeches to each of five hundred students—ye gods! Was there any justice?

Why, how sensible, of course, one to a representative from each department. Fine spirit. Enough sentiment. Wonderful time saver. Great efficiency scheme.

With a sigh Norman realized that Commencement was over, and as he rather dreamily shook hands with everyone around him, he realized that another Commencement was coming that he'd have to attend. Oh well, by that time they might send your diploma through the mail, he reasoned optimistically.

STAND FOR IT ACHIEVEMENT TEST

To be taken by graduating students, to determine what they have achieved, by graft, cribbing, or honest study.

This test is a trifle partial to morons but is suited to the purpose for which it is to be used.

DIRECTIONS:

On the next page, if the next page is at home, is test ONE (1). When the word is given turn to that page, and not before the signal is given, unless the prof.'s near-sighted and you are in the rear of the room.

A Ford Klaxon horn is to be used for giving signals.

TEST 1

READING: WORD MEANING

SAMPLE: Milk is—diluted water extract of beef.

Draw a line under the word or words that make the sentence true.

1. A teacher is a—bore, pain, laugh, parasite.
2. Tears come when we—drink moonshine, eat onions.
3. A villain is a—man from Chicago, dean of men.
4. Enormous means—Eisaman, Saylor, transparent.
5. A limb is—not to be touched, clad in silk.
6. To be free is—to be a day student, not to be on limits.
7. Biscuits are a kind of—poison, ammunition, hard dough.
8. Antique means—faculty, dining-room meat.
9. To discontinue is to—flunk, get caught dating, die.
10. Romantic means—loved, plain nuts, dumb.

Answer the above to the best of your and your neighbor's ability.

If you break your pencil you'll get the point much sooner.

(UP AND OVER)

INSTANO

TEST TWO (2) (Not 1 or 3)

ARITHMETIC COMPUTATION

When dating a man with a car who drives at an average rate of 75 miles per hour, how long will a Normal girl have to ride with him to know when to tell him to stop?

1. What is the size of a grey suit?
2. How long will it take a hen eating sawdust, to lay a wooden egg?

NOTE: If you fail to answer this problem give it up, and don't feel discouraged because the hen finally gave up.

3. If a piece of string is twice as long as a story, how long is a movie?
4. At a certain game of baseball, three men in the stand wore straw hats; the umpire was Polish; two pitchers were left-handed; and the game was tie. Name the teams.
5. If a certain pair of ankles tend to curve out directly with the amount of weight placed upon them, how many trips to Europe are necessary to broaden this person that his outer ankle bones become his pedal extremities?

6. If you hear some one singing "Beautiful Sunday, I Wish It Would Never Come Monday," what would you conclude about her profession?

NOTE: If you have not done your student teaching, you may omit this.

7. If your B. F. made a date and did not fill it, which of the following would he have done to you—stood you up like a wet umbrella or cut you down to the first floor?

TEST 3

Draw a line under the word that tells what the thing always does.

SAMPLE:

Donkeys always stumble, blunder, wobble

1. Normal boys always go to chapel, have cars, date the faculty.
 2. Hall teachers always can smell toast, sign up, let their lights burn.
 3. A room in the "dorm" always has a toaster, a private telephone, 2 loving girls.
 4. Normal girls always observe "Quiet Hour", go to Sharkeys, have steady boy friends.
 5. Patent leather grins are always worn by the help, faculty, student teachers.

TEST 4

If the following sentences are true, mark them false. If they are false, mark them true.

SAMPLE:

Weak ankles are a sign of poor balance. False

1. Many a true word comes through false teeth.
2. Ben Turpin is cock-eyed.
3. Teaching seniors always love their critics.
4. Indiana's roller-skating rink is inadequate.
5. The meals at Indiana are always delicious.

DEAR READER:

If the test didn't suit your capacity, I apologize and pray that you add any material that may be used in fair measurement of the mediocre student of this institution.

*A new pair of stockings, a dollar forty-nine—
I wore them to the large hall where we retreat to dine.
The meal was going splendidly, and all with beaming faces
Were eating and chattering, some tables running races.
When suddenly a stir, a twist, a rip—
That all-gone feeling went through me like a zip.
I knew just what had happened; of course it needs must run;
And now that means tomorrow that I must come to sup
With a runner in my stocking that I have just sewed up.*
